

Saving The Rainforest

Deforestation

The only reason people are saving the rainforest is because farmers wanting extra space started cutting trees to expand their cattle farmers. They chop the trees, burn them or sometimes flood them. People are trying to stop this.

O2 depleting

With the decreasing amount of trees there is a depleting amount of oxygen. This is because trees absorb CO₂ (carbon dioxide). As humans breathe oxygen and take out carbon dioxide it will be harder to breathe (because of the oxygen depletion). But there is an increasing population of humans then we would need space to house them. Is there a way to solve this?